It's a legitimate expense if the Board is willing...

Yes it is. And I'd pay $30 (or more) for that any day.

you know more about that than me, but the result is new and different folks coming to the BID AREA, right?

Miki...

What do you think? Could the BID sponsor Rotary?

absolutely, thumbs up to that. Between, should we waive all fees? Generally, we do for non-profits however, the community booth is for non-profits that promote only -- no sales of items. That said, we have made exceptions like with the Girl Scouts that will be joining us in a couple of weeks - allow them to sell their cookies, no charge. Thoughts? If we do, the normal fee for a third party participants (non farmer, no food vendor) (like with crafts and local businesses) is $30 or 12% of their sales whichever is greater per booth space.

Thank you. Next year it would be great to have their entire sale locate adjacent to our SWFM. It attracts lots of people for the couple of weeks it runs every year. Helps our SWFM achieve a "community service" status, I think.

Hi Don, Judy, sounds like a great idea, I'll be home later in the afternoon and will email you with more info as to how it could work, but the upshot is we have great set ups (canopies, tables and chairs) to help accommodate and would look to schedule you for a convenient time that works for you, breakdown of additional details later today, More soon,
Best,
Cynthia

Let us know how we can help.

Question: would the Rotary Book Sale be interested in having a pop-up at the Sunday Farmers' Market? Seems like we're trying to achieve the same ends.

Hi Don,

I just found out that John Ramey left for Dallas. So, we don't have a key to the storage place. Is there a possibility that we could borrow a key just for Sat. morning? Cindy Williams would be available to pick it up. If not, I understand. I apologize for the inconvenience.

Thank you,

Judy

Dear Don,

Thank you for approving our request.
We appreciate your support very much.
Should I be in touch with Steve to arrange for the storage facility to be unlocked Saturday morning?

Yes. That's fine with me. Our BID Ambassador, Steve Rhodes, oversees that room and I've copied him here so he's aware of your plans and can help support them.

Hi Don:

Eric Glynn-Davis suggested we reach out to you.

As you know every year Rotary has their used book sale in the parking lot near Drollinger.

Last year we were given access to the storage facility in the parking garage and we would like to request that access again this year. John Ramey already has a key to the storage facility.

Can we have access to that storage facility beginning as early as this Saturday morning to store some books for the book sale?

I have copied Judy Delavigne (who is in charge of the book sale) on this email.

Please let us know as soon as possible because again we would like to start storing some books as early as this Saturday morning.

Hugs!
